Abstract

This paper will take you on a journey through the different stages of a story. But be careful, The Girl would be delighted to see you get confused and lost in between it's pages.

1 Beginnings

It seems that this is how we start things.
We are off to a good start.

2 Inbetweens

How can I/You go to the Inbetween, if I/You are still stuck at the beginning?
Can you spot the difference between these words?
You may have to look very carefully:
shuffling shuffling shuffling

3 Endings

It seems that this is how we end things, however we may feel about them.

Some endings are not infinite. On the contrary, they might continue after turning just one page. Are you ready for what the future might hold ...?

A few thoughts from inside The Girl's head:

Sprichst du Deutsch? This is a special message meant only for German speakers: Heute ist nicht der November 5, 2024. (Der Tag existiert nämlich nicht.)

is truth or disclosure in philosophy. Did you know this? It is important to me that you know this. Now you do. So don't ever forget, alright?

...They told me all of my cages were mental
So I got wasted like all my potential
And my words shoot to kill when I'm mad
I have a lot of regrets about that
I was so ahead of the curve, the curve became a sphere
Fell behind on my classmates, and I ended up here
Pouring out my heart to a stranger
But I didn't pour the whiskey
I just wanted you to know
That this is me trying...¹

Every time The Girl goes outside, she does so with a hopeful feeling. She hopes that the brightness of the world will immediately give her a serotonin boost and that her problems will disappear into thin air. But soon she is reminded how much she hates the way her skin starts to burn and how exhausted she feels the moment she steps a foot into the heat. Everyday anew The Girl wishes she could simply enjoy the sun, but it seems that sometimes the brightest things are what push her to drown in the darkness the most.

The key to live a happy life is to:

- Always look over your shoulder.
- Never let your guard down.
- Don't let people come too close.
- Do none of the above!

The demons are called ‘Nichevo’yas’. The Girl sleeps restless and screaming when they visit in her dreams. But when she wakes, panting and drenched in sweat, all she remembers are their blazing red eyes burning in the dark.

“Even when I was little, I knew that teenagers sparkled. I knew they knew something children didn’t know, and adults ended up forgetting.” (Lorde)

The Girl can’t draw, but I can! Have a look at what I did:

Do you ever feel insignificant and incredibly Huge at the same time?

Maths is for freaks (numbers are cool though)

The Girl's least favorite number is 3, she sees it everywhere. Three birds sitting on the fence outside her house, three eggs for breakfast or three black cats crossing the street on her way to the cemetery. Sometimes The Girl thinks it might be following her, she questions her own sanity. When you listen closely you can hear her mumbling to herself:

$$3 + 3 = 33 + 3 = 333 + 3 = 3333 + 3 = 33333 + 3 = 33 \dots$$

On her wall is a painted Alpha that The Girl stares at for hours. Nobody knows how it got there, she most certainly didn't paint it. Nevertheless, The Girl admires it's lively green color and the flawless brushstrokes a careful hand must have made. Despite countless hours of her watching the painted , she never seems to notice the black and sloppy Ω right underneath it. Because there is no beginning without it's end.

$$\left[\begin{array}{c} 3 \\ \hline 3 + \frac{3}{3 + \frac{3}{3 + \frac{3}{3 + \sqrt{3}}}} \end{array} \right]$$

A recipe for nothing. (Trust me. You'll need it.):

- 45 C Air
- $153 \frac{\text{L}}{\text{m}^2}$ Invisibility
- 0 VA Apparent Power
- $(3 + 2i) \Omega$ Resistance against the universe
